Young Men

I love to look upon a young man There is a hidden potency concealed with in his breast which charms and pains me I silently ask, what will that youth accomplish in after life " Will be take rank with the benefactors or sconrges of his ruce? Will be exhibit the patriotic viriues of Hampdon and Washington, or the selfi h craftine-s of Benedict Arnold? If he have genus, will be consecrate it, like Milton and Montgomery to humarity and religion or, like Moore and Byron, to the polluted alters of passion? If he have mercartile skill, will be employ it, like Astor to grat ify his lust of wealth, or to elevate and bless humanity, like some of our merchant princes? If the gift of eloquence be hidden in his undeveloped soul, will be use it. like Summerfield, in fivor of religion or like Patrick Henry, in fattling for human rights? Or, will be, for mainmon a sake prostrate that gift to the use of tyrarny and infidelity? Will that immor all soul Will that immor al soul which beams with intillizence and power in his countenance, ally uself with its Croator, and thus rise to the sullime height of destiny, or, will it wage war with truth and duty, and thus sink to degralation and death? As I raise these great queries, I at once do reverence to the lighpotentiality of his nature, and tremble for

How to Wash Flannel -Some washer women possess quite a knack in washing flannel, so as to prevent its fulling. It is not the sorp suds, nor ringing waters, that thicken up flyingel in wishing, but the rub bing of it Cloth is fulled by being 'pour ced and jounced' in the stocks of the fulling mill with soap suds The action of rubbing flanuel on a wishboard is just the same as that of the fulling mill Planuel, therefore, should always be washed to very strong soap suds, which will remove the dirt and grease, by squeezing, better than hard cubbing will in weak acap suds. It should also be riused out of the soap in warm wa ter, and never in cold, as the fibres of the wool do not shrink up as much in warm as in cold water, after coming out of warm soap suds. Great care should be taken to rinse the soap completely out of the flaunch This advice will apply to the washing of blankets, the same us it does of flannel E Cuite A Cluk thus writes to the Louisville Journal

The Great Question of the Day

The Reading Journal apply remarks that the question of Protection to American Industry, which the Locofocos have propoune d un 'obsalete iden,' is again beginning to loom up as the most important feature in the political horizon. Too little attention has been paid to the question, and the rankest free trade demigagnes have been permitted to issume important positions by the aid of voters who are diametrically opposed to the noxious doctrines of Low iges and I'ree Trude The commercial and business revulsion under which the country is now groaning, is conceded, pret-ty gan rally, to have been brought about in the main by the Free Trade au valorem policy of the Locofoco Tariff tinker-With abundance of moncy in the country, the husiness energies of the people still continue depressed. Our minufacturing establishments from one end of the Uman to the other, are in a languishing condition Many of the heaviest firms have already gone by the board, and those who have thus fir manfully weathered the storm, see no glimmer of hope for the future, while the present iniquitous tariff laws continue on our Statute book a Lahor, too, which forms the basis of all wealth-has suffered in even greater degree, and the thousands of working meil out of employment, are finding by sad exto mence that the beautiful theory of free rade which was sounded in their ears by Locofoco leaders, is becoming most crushing in its practical effects Other interests which were held to be disastrously affected by a high state of manufacturing prosperity, have in their turn learned the wholesome lesson that a system that bears hard upon one branch of national enterprise 14 as sure to affect all the others, as that the body as doomed to suffer from a disease in any one of its members Indeed, so in limate is the relationship between the several industrial pursuits, that it is impossible any one of them can be prostrated without in a degree affecting all the rest. Thus the farmer, the merchant, and the laborer now find to their cost that by the paralization of manufacturing enterprise the first loses his best and surest market, the second his customers, and the list even the ability to turn his smews to profitable account.

An evil so general, and so clearly brought about by unwise legislation, one would suppose would be met by a prompt and unanimous endeavor to cure with the hast possible delay Political obstinacy of stupidity should not be allowed to plunge us doeper into the mire A return of the national prosperity of former years, is more to be desired than the continued ascendency of a political party that has brought this distress upon us If the drones of office holders who are supported at the public expense on fat salaries and stealings, and who, it has been shown, were bribed by British Gold to legislate for British interest, will not recant their heresies, let them be swept to the winds, rather than the toiling unilhous should longer suffer
